

Helping your children choose books they will love

Lovereading4kids.co.uk is a book website created for parents and children to make choosing books easy and fun

Opening extract from
Candy Girl

Written by
Karen McCombie

Illustrated by
Jessica Secheret

Published by
Barrington Stoke Ltd

All Text is Copyright © of the Author and/or Illustrator

Please print off and read at your leisure.

In memory of Louisa (the real Miranda!)

First published in 2010 in Great Britain by
Barrington Stoke Ltd
18 Walker Street, Edinburgh, EH3 7LP
www.barringtonstoke.co.uk

This edition first published 2015

Text © 2010 Karen McCombie
Illustrations © 2010 Jessica Secheret

The moral right of Karen McCombie and Jessica Secheret to be identified as the author and illustrator of this work has been asserted in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act, 1988

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced in whole or in any part in any form without the written permission of the publisher

A CIP catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library upon request

ISBN: 978-1-78112-455-0

Printed in China by Leo

CONTENTS

1	Sleep? No chance!	1
2	OK, take a deep breath	8
3	Not as great as all that	15
4	What's the problem?	19
5	Giggles and grumbles	26
6	Looking good! (Sounding bad ...)	29
7	Spilling the gossip	36
8	A not-so-nice surprise	40
9	Ella's no-show	48
10	The party	52
11	Sweet enough	64

Chapter 1

Sleep? No chance!

Is my dad crazy?!

I mean, sometimes he really acts like it.

“What’s up, Dixie?” my dad asks, as he puts his head round the door of my bedroom. “Can’t sleep? Need Daddy to read you a story?”

Yeah, right ...

Dad has to be crazy. And this is why.

First of all, I’m 13, and no one reads me stories in bed any more.

Also, he's nuts if he thinks it's funny to joke around at a time like this. (But, you know, he's always joking around.)

I mean, how can I ever fall asleep tonight, when tomorrow will be THE most exciting day of my life so far?

As Dad stands there grinning, I feel like I might throw something at him.

But then in my hands is the latest Candy magazine, and that's way too special to chuck at Dad's head!

Luckily, he plods off – but then it's Mum's turn.

“Dixie, you've really got to get some sleep,” she says.

“But I need to read this. I'm doing research!” I tell her. I've flipped Candy magazine open at Share it with Sharron, the page where readers write in with their problems.

Sharron Ford is the problem page editor. She looks so warm and friendly in her photo. You feel like you could tell her anything and she'd make it OK.

Wow, I can't wait to meet her for real ...

"Dixie, do I have to come and make you stop reading?" Mum says in a cross voice, but I know she's not really mad at me. She's the same as Dad – she likes joking around.

I giggle, and make like I'm snuggling down, just to please her.

Mum goes, but I'm not left alone for long.

"You're texting under there, aren't you?" I suddenly hear my big sister Tess say.

I can't hear her very well, but that's 'cos I'm under my duvet. And I have to reply to my friend Ella's good luck message.

All Ella's written is "U R SOOOOOOOOOOO LUCKY!!!!", but I get what she means.

I peep out from under the duvet. "No," I lie.

"Dixie, I can hear all the clicking!" says Tess and she pulls the duvet off me with a whoosh.

"I'm just finishing!" I moan.

“No, you’re not,” she snaps and she grabs my phone off me. “You promised Mum that you’d go to sleep, and you haven’t. So I’m taking this.”

“Tess! Give that back!” I shout after her, but she’s already gone.

In case you haven’t worked it out yet, Tess is nothing like me and our mum and dad. She never likes to goof around.

Here's what Tess likes to do –

1. be serious
2. work all the time
3. have a go at me when I get one of my giggling fits.

But here's something that me and Tess both do have in common – we both read Candy magazine.

And here's something else I'm pretty sure of – Tess is jealous of me.

But I can't help it if I'm chatty. And how is it my fault that I was chatting to our new neighbour Rachel who works in the same office block as Candy magazine?

And I can't help it if Rachel got me some work experience at Candy for this half-term.

The thing is, I feel totally sunshine-y inside, and I'm not going to let my sister act like a big,
fat rain cloud and spoil all my fun.

'Cos Candy, here I come!

